

The power lines in my area are all at least 50 or more years old. I have a constant battle with the utility company to eliminate noise. They are only 30 feet from my house. To introduce these frequencies on the power lines will generate more rfi. I wonder if you have done any field testing on this? It seem's like a very bad idea!

thank you

John W. Shean - N9TV